Announcement:
Stork Materials Technology acquires controlling interest in Garwood Laboratories, Inc.

Thank you for the opportunity to share this exciting news from Garwood Laboratories, Inc.

Garwood Laboratories of California is joining the Stork Materials Technology network of independent testing laboratories.

Effective May 19th, 2008 Garwood Laboratories joined forces with Stork Materials Technology (www.storksmt.com). Stork is a worldwide company with over 140 years experience in testing, and a perfect complement to Garwood's existing services. Stork's capabilities in materials testing and inspection, failure analysis, and product qualification testing services of polymers, composites, and metals will allow Garwood to extend to its clients a full line of testing services unrivaled in the industry.

In true Garwood fashion, we would like to make this transition as seamless as possible. Clients will still be interfacing with the same personnel, including Laboratory Managers, Sales Managers, Test Engineers, Project Coordinators, Test Technicians, and Customer Service Representatives. The same great customer service and integrity that has set Garwood apart from the competition will continue under Stork Garwood, with an even wider array of available testing services.
